Prompt

The main prompt we used was a zero shot context based prompt on chat got that looked liked this:

"I'm working on a project for a Donation and Charity Management System. this system allows organisations to create charities and fundraisers that people can donate to. the details of the system are described in the requirements. I will provide a requirement-query matrix, an ERD and relational model for the system. I now want to create a website with both the frontend and backend for the system. I'm using supabase for the database and I want to use node for backend and react vite for frontend end. I want the website to have a home page with buttons to lead to 4 pages one for each of the main entities. If you need more more details about the project before generating my required files feel free to ask me"
